Meet Associate Pastor Andy Hamer Shepherd of the Hills Presbyterian Church

After growing up in Iowa, he jumped at the chance to go to college in the Mountain West. Four years at the University of Montana sealed his appreciation for skiing, hiking, and climbing – and he also squeezed in enough studying to earn a BA in English with a minor in Spanish. His faith in Jesus Christ also developed in college which gave him a passion to minister to his fellow students. After graduation, his longtime friend Theresa and he were married and they headed to Boulder, CO for a college ministry position.

Following two years of working with CU students they headed to Winston-Salem, NC where Andy worked with students at Wake Forest University. During their nine years there they enjoyed connecting with students, learned a lot about community, both earned master's degrees, and had two children (Kathleen and Caroline).

After graduating from Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary Andy sought ordination in the PCUSA, and began searching for churches closer to family and the Mountain West. They felt a connection with the Shepherd congregation and in early 2014 accepted a call to ministry in their neighborhood. They've loved living back in Colorado! In their free time they enjoy hosting friends at their house, skiing, hiking, running, and road biking.
